HARD COAL MINERS, OPERATORS LOCK HORNS

DETERMINED TO STAND ON THEIR PRESENT POLICY

NEGOTIATIONS STAND AT SAME
POINT WHICH LEAD TO A
PREVIOUS DEADLOCK

CONFERENCE OPENS MONDAY
WITH 12 DAYS LEFT TO DRAW
UP THE NEXT CONTRACT

(By United Press)
New York, Aug. 18.—Anthracite miners and operators are determined to stand squarely on their present policies when the joint conference is resumed in Atlantic City Monday, when they will make an effort to draw up a new working contract and avoid the suspension of mining two weeks from today, it was learned authoritatively.

This means that the negotiations will stand at the same point which lead to a deadlock in the last conference.

The miners believe they should stand squarely on their policy toward the "checkoff," and are determined that it shall not be put into force, basing their plea on the ground that it is illegal.

The anthracite negotiations were entered into without either side surrendering its position, it is said. The two were forced into conference by the action of the United States Coal Commission under orders from President Coolidge.

The Coal Commission, it is learned, threatened that they would publish a statement of conditions which would not sway public opinion to either side. The Commission has the government behind it if either side fails to do anything. By threatening to wield the big stick of public opinion the Commission evidenced dissatisfaction with the conduct of both sides.

The conference opens Monday with twelve days left to draw up the next contract. If it is not done by that time a walkout will occur.

HAS METHOD OF BURNING COAL TWICE

New York, Aug. 18.—A method of burning coal twice and thus materially reducing cost of automobile manufacture, has been perfected by a firm of New York chemists and taken over by Henry Ford, according to Emil Piron, who with his associate, V. Z. Caracristi, conducted the experiments.

"The method is practicable and is successful beyond a doubt," Piron told the United Press today. Henry Ford is now engaged in constructing buildings in Detroit where the new process will be put into operation on a commercial basis.

Each ton of coal burned by Ford under the new process will produce coke—with which he can make his own steel instead of buying it as at present—motor gas, lubricating oil, creosote, gas and grease, Piron said.

The experiment which resulted in today's announcement of success was made in West Virginia and was financed by Ford.

Balboa, Aug. 18.—The United States cruiser Rochester sailed from here early today for Santo Domingo, following rumors of an uprising in that country.

Independents to Raise S. D. Gas Two Cents

Chicago, Aug. 18.—Independent oil men in South Dakota will raise their price on gasoline 2 cents a gallon, making the retail price in that state 18 cents, a committee representing the independents announced here.

OKLAHOMA EXECUTIVE THREATENED UNLESS TROOPS ARE RECALLED

Oklahoma City, Aug. 18.—An anonymous letter threatened Governor Walton unless troops immediately are withdrawn from Tulsa, was received at the executive offices, according to an announcement from Aldrich Blake, the governor's counselor.

"Unless troops are withdrawn at once your fate will be the same as that of the others," Blake said the letter read. The governor left here today on a motor trip.

RUST IDENTIFIED AS A MURDERER

CLAIMED HE KILLED DE WITZ,
MINNEAPOLIS DRUG
CLERK

(By United Press)
St. Paul, Aug. 18.—Edwin J. Rust, slayer of Sheriff I. C. Fulker of Aberdeen, was positively identified today as the murderer of Bryan De Witz, Minneapolis drug clerk.

Rust was cornered and killed yesterday by two St. Paul detectives. DeWitz was called from his rooming house a few nights ago and urged by a bandit to open the drug store safe. Reaching the drug store De Witz grappled with the bandit and was instantly killed by a revolver shot. Police today learned Rust was the slayer.

Mrs. Rust, wife of the dead bandit, arrived in St. Paul today from Lakota, N. D., where she had been visiting friends. She knew nothing of the death of her husband until she reached Fargo last night.

"My husband will be buried in St. Paul. I have nothing more to say," was her only word. She was greatly shocked by the news, and was under great nervous strain. She claimed to have no knowledge of her husband's whereabouts since the murder of Sheriff Fulker at Wolverton, Minn., on a Great Northern train July 1.

Louis Rust, father of the slain murderer, accompanied Mrs. Edwin Rust to St. Paul.

AGED MOTHER

MOURNS AT HOME

East Grand Forks, Aug. 18.—Mute evidence of the tragedy marking the death of Edwin J. Rust, notorious gunman killed by St. Paul detectives, was seen here today.

A "for sale" sign marked the home of his aged mother—mother of seven—all of whom have proven industrious and respected but Edwin.

With money saved from taking in washing, Mrs. Rust built a substantial and unusually attractive home here. The lawns were well kept, blossoming with flower gardens, and the rooms tasteful and well ordered.

The father, Louis Rust, was infrequently employed, and spent most of his time visiting with cronies in town.

BRICK KILN DISASTER

KILLS 3 AND INJURES 1

Joliet, Ill., Aug. 18.—Three men were killed and one injured late yesterday when a brick kiln in the General Refractory company at Rochelle collapsed and buried them. The dead are Paul Semis, Walter Pier and George Cermosk.

Denver, Aug. 18.—Awakened from a sound sleep Wednesday, Mrs. August Hill discovered she had given birth to an eight pound baby girl. The case is one of the few on record where childbirth has taken place entirely unknown to the mother, physicians declared.

BURNING OIL LAKE ENDANGERS FORT MAC ARTHUR, CAL.

RESIDENTS OF NEARBY TOWNS ABANDON THEIR HOMES TO THE FLOOD

(By United Press)
Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 18.—A boiling lake of burning oil bubbled and seethed within 300 feet of Fort MacArthur's magazines at San Pedro during the night.

Trenches were dug to divert the fiery flood. Two hundred men toiled during the night in the intense heat.

Residents of nearby towns abandoned their homes to the flood, carrying their baggage.

The fire started with the explosion of the 150,000 barrel tank of the General Petroleum company early Friday.

It burned all day, and at night became a menace to all the surrounding countryside. When the tank began leaking, dikes were thrown up to hold back the oil, but in a few hours the liquid flames were lapping almost at the brink of these earthworks as the area they covered grew larger.

An 8,000 barrel gasoline tank is within the danger zone.

The gasoline was being pumped from the tank, but it was thought it would be impossible to complete this. Oil was also being drawn from the bottom of the burning tank and conveyed by pipe lines to tankers nearby.

Danger Seems Averted

San Pedro, Calif., Aug. 18.—Danger of serious loss of life and property as the result of an overflow from the fiery cauldron of 500,000 barrels of burning crude oil in the General Petroleum company's reservoir, appeared to be averted today, after a heart-breaking 24-hour battle with the flames.

FLAMES ROSE

400 FEET HIGH

San Pedro, Calif., Aug. 18.—Working in the intense heat all last night under the torchlight of flames which rose 400 feet in the air, visible for 200 miles at sea, an army of over 1,000 fire fighters threw up entrenchments believed sufficient to divert the streams of burning oil which periodically rose over the side of the tank. In an hour's time last night the blazing floods threatened to sweep over a wide area containing a score of houses, several large distillate and gasoline tanks and portions of Fort MacArthur barracks.

A huge bubble, estimated to contain 30,000 barrels of liquid fire, poured over the side of the reservoir, destroying everything in its path and spreading over the ocean for more than 500 yards.

The hastily thrown up dikes protected the nearby residential districts. All homes in the vicinity were vacated.

Daredevil Wades to

Niagara Falls' Brink

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Removing his shoes and wading into Niagara river above the falls, at Prospect Point, William Sullivan, a sailor on a Bethlehem Steel company boat, caused women to scream and men to run to the rescue.

Sullivan waded out from shore and down stream until he could overlook the brink of the American falls. He was in momentary danger of toppling over and a reservation officer blew his emergency whistle for help. He was arrested.

Sullivan's stunt was the result of an argument as to the possibility of a man wading to the brink of the falls in low water.

MANY LOSE LIVES IN DISASTROUS TYPHOON SWEEPING HONG KONG

(By United Press)
Hong Kong, China, Aug. 18.—Many lives were reported lost and there was great damage done to shipping in a disastrous typhoon which swept the harbor today. The wind reached the highest velocity ever recorded in Hong Kong. The storm lasted more than an hour. A British submarine was sunk. First reports said there were no survivors. The steamer Nunsang was also reported sunk with all hands. Two Japanese steamers were sunk. Later reports said the lost British submarine was the L-9, 1,000 tons, with a crew of 36 or 40 men and officers. The fate of the crew was still uncertain, with some reports stating that a majority were saved, and another declaring all but one were lost.

ADMIRALTY RECEIVES NO ADVICES ON "SUB"

London, Aug. 18.—Up to a late hour this morning the admiralty had received no official information regarding the sinking of the submarine L-9 in the typhoon in Hong Kong.

Hong Kong, Aug. 18.—The wild-est typhoon in the history of Hong Kong bay was abating here today as officials started a check of damaged shipping to ascertain the extent of the disaster.

Available reports indicated that only two important ships had been sunk, the British submarine L-9 and the steamer Nunsang. Many small boats were destroyed however, and there was fear that the total death toll would be high.

Later reports said all members of the submarine crew were saved, but that the entire crew of the Nunsang was missing, and probably all were drowned.

The disaster brought forth many deeds of heroism. A sailor was still on the L-9 as she went down, but he was saved by a man from a nearby warship who leaped into the boiling seas with a lifebelt and grasped the drowning man. Both were pulled safely aboard the warship.

The L-9 was swept from her anchorage and pounded to pieces by the heavy waves. Watchers saw a part of the crew attempt to put off in a life raft, but they disappeared. It was first reported the lost steamer was the Nunsang, but this was later corrected.

Scores of small boats were swamped or crushed by the giant seas and a number of steamers driven ashore.

PAN CREDITORS FILE FOR INCORPORATION

ST. CLOUD HOLDING CO. TO TAKE OVER BALANCE PROPERTY OF DEFUNCT CONCERN

St. Cloud, Aug. 18.—Creditors of the defunct Pan Motor company, St. Cloud, filed articles of incorporation at the state capitol for the St. Cloud Holding company, organized to take over the remaining properties of the defunct concern and to seek to liquidate the company's debts. Nearly 40 creditors, all residents of St. Cloud, received certificates of indebtedness issued in lieu of stock by the holding company.

Incorporators are C. B. Lewis, C. F. Ladner, Fred Schlipin, L. E. Fauquette, L. F. Cary, C. L. Atwood and C. D. Schwab. The holding company will not attempt to manufacture automobiles, Mr. Schlipin said. Negotiations for the sale or lease of the plant are under way, he said.

At the receivers' sale Aug. 1, trustees representing the stockholders of the company bid in the assembling plant for $175,000. The creditors bid in the balance of the plant.

Claims still unsatisfied amount to approximately $250,000, Mr. Schlipin said, but indications are that creditors will be paid in full.

MPLS. RAIL TOURIST TRAFFIC INCREASES 20 PER CENT IN YEAR

NORTHERN PACIFIC PASSENGER
HEAD EMPHASIZES VALUE

BROUGHT YELLOWSTONE PARK
TO THE ATTENTION OF ALL THE WORLD

Pointing out that all tourist traffic this summer through the Minneapolis gateway bound for Minnesota resorts and the playgrounds of the west exceeds that of any other year and is an approximate increase of 20 to 25 per cent over last year, A. B. Smith, passenger traffic manager of the Northern Pacific railroad emphasized to The Minneapolis Journal Travel and Resort bureau today the importance of an adequate campaign of publicity and advertising to that city.

"Portland has raised a fund of $300,000 for advertising its city," said Mr. Smith. "Seattle has spent this year about $50,000 in city advertising. Los Angeles, San Francisco and San Diego have spent enormous sums this year and expect to go even stronger next year.

"In comparison with the big amount of money used by the western cities, the appropriation of Minneapolis and Minnesota for city and state publicity is small. In many ways we can get pointers from the newer communities out west.

"A generation ago nobody ever thought of going to Yellowstone park for a vacation trip and yet this year 120,000 tourists have visited Yellowstone. This is entirely the result of advertising. The Northern Pacific built a line to Yellowstone many years ago. For many years there were deficits and people were slow to become interested, but constant advertising eventually began to multiply travel rapidly and soon other railroads were interested and built in lines until today there is probably no better known tourist objective in the world than Yellowstone park.

"Just as surely Minneapolis and Minnesota have attractions amply sufficient to satisfy even the most discriminating tourist and I have never heard of Minneapolis people being unwilling to express pride over municipal charms or attractions. If only this pride could be more widely expressed through advertising, more of the world would come to Minneapolis to visit and to live."

The California city campaigns referred to by Mr. Smith are the $500,000 expenditure of San Francisco and $200,000 campaign at Los Angeles, according to reports of the bureau.

PASTOR AND ENGINEER DROP PROFESSIONS FOR $104 PLASTERER'S PAY

Chicago, Aug. 18.—The plastering trade is plundering the professions. A plasterer's wage of $104 a week is the lure. Ministers are abandoning their pulpits to take up the trowel. Until a few days ago the Rev. Frank Cummins of Kenosha was one of the workmen employed on the new Orrington hotel in Evanston. George Sellick, of Portland, Ore., a graduate of Washington university, a civil engineer and the holder of several degrees, recently turned down the offer of a professorship to join the plastering trade gang at the hotel.

"I learned the trade at high school and worked my way through college," Sellick said. "When I was graduated in 1917, I found the trade paid better than my profession as an engineer. Members of my graduating class are working for $200 a month, while my pay runs between $400 and $500.

Several student ministers also are working as plasterers in Evanston.

POINCARÉ TO MEET PREMIER BALDWIN TO DISCUSS REPARATIONS

(By United Press)
Paris, Aug. 18.—Premier Poincaré will meet Premier Baldwin of Great Britain after the latter returns from his vacation in Aix La Bains for a new discussion of the problem of reparations, according to semi-official information here today.

FORECAST POINCARÉ'S REPLY TO BRITAIN

Paris, Aug. 18.—Premier Poincaré's reply to the British reparations note will agree to cancel a part of the German debt to this country if an equivalent amount of inter-allied debts are cancelled, it was understood today.

Otherwise France will insist upon following out her arrangements of May, 1921, for distribution of reparations and amount to be collected from Germany.

The reply will confirm the French demand for payment of 26 milliards of gold marks, which would make the total German debt about 50 milliards if arrangements are completed for the reduction of inter-allied debts.

DECLARES VIEWPOINTS AS IRRECONCILABLE

Paris, Aug. 18.—With Premier Poincaré's reply to the British reparations note completed and reported ready for delivery in London early next week, the Petite Parisian today printed an article by Philippe Millett, usually well-informed and an authority on governmental affairs, declaring the Franco-British viewpoints regarding reparations and the Ruhr were "irreconcilable."

England doubts the legality of Franco-Belgian occupation of the Ruhr, while France is so sure of her position that she refuses even to discuss it.

England desires evacuation of the occupied territory prior to the entire payment of reparations, which France and Belgium firmly refuse.

U. S. BANK OFFICIALS HAIL DEPOSITS GAIN

IMPROVED BUSINESS CONDITION SEEN IN $14,890,670 INCREASE OVER STATE IN YEAR

Minneapolis, Aug. 18.—Growing deposits in state banks and trust companies, announced by A. J. Veigel, state superintendent of banks, who reported an increase in deposits of $14,890,670.44 over a year ago, reflects a highly favorable condition, officials of federal banking institutions today agreed.

"We can't tell how much of that increase is farmer's money," John A. Doelle, vice-president of the federal land bank, said. "But the increase certainly means easing of the credit situation through the state and generally improved conditions."

That a similar condition exists in national banks, showing steadily improving business conditions, was the belief expressed by Federal Reserve bank officials. Total deposits on June 30 were $451,182,829.33, as compared with $436,292,159.99 a year ago.

A reduction in total bills payable and rediscounts also was reported by Mr. Veigel. The reduction is $7,096,279.46 since a year ago.

Atlanta, Aug. 18.—Toronto was selected as the 1924 site for the convention of the International Typographical Union. The vote was 148 to 108 and was reached by a secret ballot. Hibbing and Virginia, neighboring cities in Minnesota, had extended a joint invitation and had been the only other contestants.

TEXAS, OKLAHOMA, GEORGIA PUSHING INVESTIGATIONS

ARRESTS ARE MADE AT AMARILLO, TEXAS, FOR ALLEGED WHIPPINGS

IN OKLAHOMA GOVERNOR WALTON ANNOUNCED MARTIAL LAW IN TULSA

(By United Press)
A new wave of brutal whippings and floggings by small bands occupied the attention of authorities in three southern states today.

Governors in Georgia and Oklahoma were pushing investigations into the outrages, while Texas rangers took charge of probes in that state.

At Amarillo, Texas, Sheriff Less Whitaker and four others were arrested for alleged participation in the flogging of E. T. McDonald. Authorities at Wichita Falls hunted five men who beat Lonnie Davis with a wet rope. Both Davis and McDonald were seriously injured.

In Oklahoma Governor J. C. Walton, who promulgated martial law in Tulsa because of many whippings, was himself threatened by the whippers.

Following circulation of reports that the "hogging parties" would be staged throughout the state in retaliation for the governor's declaration of martial law, military rule was extended to the towns around Tulsa.

Recent whippings in Macon and other towns occupied the attention of Georgia authorities. Five were under arrest at Newman, charged with kidnapping and murdering M. Trouton, whose mutilated body was found in a creek.

FEELING TENSE IN STEUBENVILLE, O.

Columbus, O., Aug. 18.—Feeling growing out of the recent rioting between residents and members of the Ku Klux Klan in Steubenville is tense, a committee of 20 Steubenville citizens reported to Governor Donahay today.

There is grave danger of further trouble, the governor was told.

Hardware stores in Steubenville have had very heavy sales of firearms and ammunition, and the delegation expressed the fear that any further outbreak would be accompanied by bloodshed.

STATE RANGERS AT PORT ARTHUR, TEXAS

Port Arthur, Texas, Aug. 18.—State Rangers arrived here today under orders of acting Governor Davidson to investigate the tense situation, which has arisen as the result of the murder of B. A. Harris, city detective, and the reported kidnapping and whipping of two men.

Ranger Captains Aldrich and Nichols and two privates took charge of the investigation.

LITTLE HELEN WILLS NOW TENNIS CHAMPION

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Little Helen Wills, the California star, became the American women's tennis champion here this afternoon when she defeated Mrs. Molla Mallory, seven times champion, 6-2 and 6-1.

Seldom has an ovation been given in sport like the tumult from 5,000 spectators that arose when the pretty little California girl scored the winning point on a beautiful place.

The crowd rushed out of the stands and surrounded the blushing miss.

Eddie Conlon, broad-shouldered umpire, jumped out of his chair and rushed to the girl, giving her resounding kisses on both cheeks.

Mrs. Mallory, gracious in defeat, put her arms around her conqueror and went to the side lines. Up in the canvas covered press stands the mother of the new champion wept.

(By United Press)
New York, Aug. 18.—Anthracite miners and operators are determined to stand squarely on their present policies when the joint conference is resumed in Atlantic City Monday, when they will make an effort to draw up a new working contract and avoid the suspension of mining two weeks from today, it was learned authoritatively.

This means that the negotiations will stand at the same point which lead to a deadlock in the last conference.

The miners believe they should stand squarely on their policy toward the "checkoff," and are determined that it shall not be put into force, basing their plea on the ground that it is illegal.

The anthracite negotiations were entered into without either side surrendering its position, it is said. The two were forced into conference by the action of the United States Coal Commission under orders from President Coolidge.

The Coal Commission, it is learned, threatened that they would publish a statement of conditions which would not sway public opinion to either side. The Commission has the government behind it if either side fails to do anything. By threatening to wield the big stick of public opinion the Commission evidenced dissatisfaction with the conduct of both sides.

The conference opens Monday with twelve days left to draw up the next contract. If it is not done by that time a walkout will occur.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, left today with some of his men to spend Sunday in Atlantic City preparing for the conference which will open at 11 a. m. at the Hotel Ambassador.

Pointing out that all tourist traffic this summer through the Minneapolis gateway bound for Minnesota resorts and the playgrounds of the west exceeds that of any other year and is an approximate increase of 20 to 25 per cent over last year, A. B. Smith, passenger traffic manager of the Northern Pacific railroad emphasized to The Minneapolis Journal Travel and Resort bureau today the importance of an adequate campaign of publicity and advertising to that city.

"Portland has raised a fund of $300,000 for advertising its city," said Mr. Smith. "Seattle has spent this year about $50,000 in city advertising. Los Angeles, San Francisco and San Diego have spent enormous sums this year and expect to go even stronger next year.

"In comparison with the big amount of money used by the western cities, the appropriation of Minneapolis and Minnesota for city and state publicity is small. In many ways we can get pointers from the newer communities out west.

"A generation ago nobody ever thought of going to Yellowstone park for a vacation trip and yet this year 120,000 tourists have visited Yellowstone. This is entirely the result of advertising. The Northern Pacific built a line to Yellowstone many years ago. For many years there were deficits and people were slow to become interested, but constant advertising eventually began to multiply travel rapidly and soon other railroads were interested and built in lines until today there is probably no better known tourist objective in the world than Yellowstone park.

"Just as surely Minneapolis and Minnesota have attractions amply sufficient to satisfy even the most discriminating tourist and I have never heard of Minneapolis people being unwilling to express pride over municipal charms or attractions. If only this pride could be more widely expressed through advertising, more of the world would come to Minneapolis to visit and to live."

The California city campaigns referred to by Mr. Smith are the $500,000 expenditure of San Francisco and $200,000 campaign at Los Angeles, according to reports of the bureau.

PASTOR AND ENGINEER DROP PROFESSIONS FOR $104 PLASTERER'S PAY

Chicago, Aug. 18.—The plastering trade is plundering the professions. A plasterer's wage of $104 a week is the lure. Ministers are abandoning their pulpits to take up the trowel. Until a few days ago the Rev. Frank Cummins of Kenosha was one of the workmen employed on the new Orrington hotel in Evanston. George Sellick, of Portland, Ore., a graduate of Washington university, a civil engineer and the holder of several degrees, recently turned down the offer of a professorship to join the plastering trade gang at the hotel.

"I learned the trade at high school and worked my way through college," Sellick said. "When I was graduated in 1917, I found the trade paid better than my profession as an engineer. Members of my graduating class are working for $200 a month, while my pay runs between $400 and $500.

Several student ministers also are working as plasterers in Evanston.

POINCARÉ TO MEET PREMIER BALDWIN TO DISCUSS REPARATIONS

(By United Press)
Paris, Aug. 18.—Premier Poincaré will meet Premier Baldwin of Great Britain after the latter returns from his vacation in Aix La Bains for a new discussion of the problem of reparations, according to semi-official information here today.

FORECAST POINCARÉ'S
REPLY TO BRITAIN

Paris, Aug. 18.—Premier Poincaré's reply to the British reparations note will agree to cancel a part of the German debt to this country if an equivalent amount of inter-allied debts are cancelled, it was understood today.

Otherwise France will insist upon following out her arrangements of May, 1921, for distribution of reparations and amount to be collected from Germany.

The reply will confirm the French demand for payment of 26 milliards of gold marks, which would make the total German debt about 50 milliards if arrangements are completed for the reduction of inter-allied debts.

DECLARES VIEWPOINTS AS IRRECONCILABLE

Paris, Aug. 18.—With Premier Poincaré's reply to the British reparations note completed and reported ready for delivery in London early next week, the Petite Parisienne today printed an article by Philippe Millet, usually well-informed and an authority on governmental affairs, declaring the Franco-British viewpoints regarding reparations and the Ruhr were "irreconcilable."

England doubts the legality of Franco-Belgian occupation of the Ruhr, while France is so sure of her position that she refuses even to discuss it.

England desires evacuation of the occupied territory prior to the entire payment of reparations, which France and Belgium firmly refuse.

U. S. BANK OFFICIALS HAIL DEPOSITS GAIN

IMPROVED BUSINESS CONDITION
SEEN IN $14,890,670 INCREASE
OVER STATE IN YEAR

Minneapolis, Aug. 18.—Growing deposits in state banks and trust companies, announced by A. J. Veigel, state superintendent of banks, who reported an increase in deposits of $14,890,670.44 over a year ago, reflects a highly favorable condition, officials of federal banking institutions today agreed.

"We can't tell how much of that increase is farmer's money," John A. Doelle, vice-president of the federal land bank, said. "But the increase certainly means easing of the credit situation through the state and generally improved conditions."

That a similar condition exists in national banks, showing steadily improving business conditions, was the belief expressed by Federal Reserve bank officials. Total deposits on June 30 were $451,182,829.33, as compared with $436,292,159.99 a year ago.

A reduction in total bills payable and rediscounts also was reported by Mr. Veigel. The reduction is $7,096,279.46 since a year ago.

Printers Name Toronto

For 1924 Convention

Atlanta, Aug. 18.—Toronto was selected as the 1924 site for the convention of the International Typographical Union. The vote was 148 to 108 and was reached by a secret ballot. Hibbing and Virginia, neighboring cities in Minnesota, had extended a joint invitation and had been the only other contestants.

TEXAS, OKLAHOMA, GEORGIA PUSHING INVESTIGATIONS

ARRESTS ARE MADE AT AMARILLO, TEXAS, FOR ALLEGED WHIPPINGS

IN OKLAHOMA GOVERNOR WALTON ANNOUNCED MARTIAL LAW IN TULSA

(By United Press)
A new wave of brutal whippings and floggings by small bands occupied the attention of authorities in three southern states today.

Governors in Georgia and Oklahoma were pushing investigations into the outrages, while Texas rangers took charge of probes in that state.

At Amarillo, Texas, Sheriff Less Whittaker and four others were arrested for alleged participation in the flogging of E. T. McDonald. Authorities at Wichita Falls hunted five men who beat Lonnie Davis with a wet rope. Both Davis and McDonald were seriously injured.

In Oklahoma Governor J. C. Walton, who promulgated martial law in Tulsa because of many whippings, was himself threatened by the whippers.

Following circulation of reports that the "flogging parties" would be staged throughout the state in retaliation for the governor's declaration of martial law, military rule was extended to the towns around Tulsa.

Recent whippings in Macon and other towns occupied the attention of Georgia authorities. Five were under arrest at Newman, charged with kidnapping and murdering M. Trouton, whose mutilated body was found in a creek.

FEELING TENSE IN STEUBENVILLE, O.

Columbus, O., Aug. 18.—Feeling growing out of the recent rioting between residents and members of the Ku Klux Klan in Steubenville is tense, a committee of 20 Steubenville citizens reported to Governor Donahay today.

There is grave danger of further trouble, the governor was told.

Hardware stores in Steubenville have had very heavy sales of firearms and ammunition, and the delegation expressed the fear that any further outbreak would be accompanied by bloodshed.

STATE RANGERS AT PORT ARTHUR, TEXAS

Port Arthur, Texas, Aug. 18.—State Rangers arrived here today under orders of acting Governor Davidson to investigate the tense situation, which has arisen as the result of the murder of B. A. Harris, city detective, and the reported kidnapping and whipping of two men.

Ranger Captains Aldrich and Nichols and two privates took charge of the investigation.

LITTLE HELEN WILLS NOW TENNIS CHAMPION

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Little Helen Wills, the California star, became the American women's tennis champion here this afternoon when she defeated Mrs. Molla Mallory, seven times champion, 6-2 and 6-1.

Seldom has an ovation been given in sport like the tumult from 5,000 spectators that arose when the pretty little California girl scored the winning point on a beautiful place.

The crowd rushed out of the stands and surrounded the blushing miss.

Eddie Conlon, broad-shouldered umpire, jumped out of his chair and rushed to the girl, giving her resounding kisses on both cheeks.

Mrs. Mallory, gracious in defeat, put her arms around her conqueror and went to the side lines. Up in the canvas covered press stands the mother of the new champion wept.

The Power That Pulls

A dynamo can not supply power to a machine if the electric wire is disconnected or pinched. Neither can the brain furnish power to an organ if the nerve is disconnected or pinched. For brain power to get to the machinery of the human body and pull life's load, there must be no pinched nerves. A dynamo can not supply power to a machine if the electric wire is disconnected or pinched. Neither can the brain furnish power to an organ if the nerve is disconnected or pinched. For brain power to get to the machinery of the human body and pull life's load, there must be no pinched nerves. Chiropractic adjustments adjust the cause of your illness and normal natural power results. Get the power that pulls. Consultation, spinal analysis and booklets free.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 18, 1923

LORD CURZON'S LATEST NOTE

IN the latest joint note to France and Belgium Lord Curzon has come out strongly and the effect of the note is likely to be seen in a break between France and Belgium on the one hand and England and Italy on the other or in an acceptance of the general provisions of the note on the part of the nations who have held the Ruhr valley by force.

In this latest note the British foreign secretary says a number of things that the British government held back under the premiership of Bonar Law because of a desire to avoid unpleasantness in the relations of Britain and France. The note questions the legality of the invasion of the Ruhr; calls attention to the fact that while France suffered the greater destruction of property because of close proximity to the conflict, Britain also lost materially in the war through the destruction of ships and their valuable cargoes; claims that because France has refused to consider the earlier proposals of the British as worthy of consideration it becomes necessary to demand a showdown, whereby the attitude France intends to hold may be made known to the allies; claims that while Britain is willing to suffer the loss of certain advances she made to the allies during the war she must have an amount equal to the British debt to America either from Germany in the form of reparations or from France and Belgium and other nations which were aided by such advances, and affirms that Britain cannot remain indifferent to the threat to her trade and to the world's peace, which the continued occupation of the Ruhr by the armed forces of France and Belgium holds.

It seems inconceivable that this plain speaking will result in any deep feeling between France and England which will result in war between the two nations. It would seem that it is more likely to result in bringing about an understanding between these nations. An effort to speak softly and avoid any cause for hard feeling has not helped the situation in Europe at all, and this plain statement of Britain's position will at least make it plain to France that her occupation of the Ruhr in spite of the disapproval of England and Italy will not be allowed to continue without protest.

The situation in Europe at present seems to support the claim that nations that are strong in a military sense are likely, just because of this strength, to fail to understand the political dangers underlying the use of force. During the World war the mistakes of Germany were largely political mistakes. She did not see that the invasion of Belgium would result in such a worldwide feeling of resentment, nor did she see the consequences of the activities of her submarines which finally led to the entrance of the United States, whose ability to exert a strong military pressure in France she failed to foresee, even after submarine attacks on American ships had made the entrance of America certain.

It is impossible to believe that France can continue to hold the Ruhr indefinitely without inviting resistance from Germany. Sixty million people cannot be permanently repressed. But at this time France sees in the fall of the Cuno ministry the probability of a yielding on the part of Germany, the admission of defeat and the expression of a willingness to bow to French demands, while Britain sees in the threatening conditions in Germany the danger of the breakdown of orderly government with inevitable civil war, a long period of unrest, and a slow and painful recovery with attendant dangers to the peace of Europe and the world.

The onlooker wonders what the war really settled. It is admitted that it destroyed Germany militarism for the present at least, but five years after the signing of the armistice the victorious nations have failed to write a treaty of peace; the conference of Versailles stands condemned as incapable of seeing beyond the circumstances of the days during which it assembled, and the futility of force is revealed.

EXTREME VIEWS OF WOMANHOOD AND ITS MISSION

"THE Soul of Woman: Reflections on Life," a book written by Gina Lombroso, has created a good deal of discussion. It has won attention because the writer, herself a Doctor of Laws and Medicine, daughter of the famous Italian anthropologist Cesare Lombroso, and the wife of Guglielmo Ferrero, the celebrated historian, is entirely out of sympathy with the feminist movement.

The book is dedicated to the writer's daughter and is written that it may save her the suffering that is in store for all women. The sincerity of the writer shines forth in the pages of the book and the reader wonders how it is possible for a woman of the twentieth century to take the position of this educated lady.

It is to be remembered that it is a voice out of the old world and yet the voice comes out of Italy where women are demanding a greater freedom and where the government is ready to extend to women a larger measure of autonomy. The book could not have been written in America by one who had lived in the American atmosphere for a lifetime.

The writer emphasizes the fact that women have again and again struck out into the busy world to return to their purely feminine interests, which they had revalued while engaged in seeking those things that had seemed to be worth while but which did not satisfy the feminine instinct. That there is a conflict between the feminine passions, altruism, maternal instinct and love, and the things emphasized by the woman's rights movement, the writer declares with fervor.

While the book will be dismissed without much consideration by the women of lands where the woman's movement has made considerable gain, it may have a value for these lands. The book is likely to halt the movement in Europe, and this is probably unfortunate, but in countries like this, where some women are asking that women be placed on an equality with men, thereby inviting an age in which many things may be lost though many are gained, the book may call a halt to extremists who have not thoroughly estimated the possible consequences of the changes they propose. There is no sure ground for believing that these extremists are nearer the ideal than this cultured Italian woman whom they consider benighted despite her education and high degree of intelligence.

STEEL MAKERS MERIT COMMENDATION

THERE has never been an issue in America on which the press, religious organizations and social workers, reached the unanimity that marked their disapproval of the 12-hour day. They bombarded the fortifications of the United States Steel corporation and the bombardment was so effective that the arguments used in defending the 12-hour day fell.

Many of the attacks on this long work day led to the pouring out of bitter feelings aroused by the attitude of the United States Steel corporation, whose officials were subjected to an attack whose unification was remarkable. The attack has done its work, the 12-hour day is doomed, and the voice of the public, as expressed through the press and the pulpit, the commission and the forum, has been heard.

There were those who made veiled suggestions that if the steel corporation yielded to the pressure of public opinion and discontinued the 12-hour day, it would take it out of the workers in some other way, probably by allowing the wages to remain at the same level so that the workers would receive wages that would lead them to wish for a return of long hours. This has not been done. The United States Steel corporation has raised the wages of men going on an 8-hour shift by 25 per cent, and in this way has placed the income of the men where they will not feel any heavy financial loss through the reduction of hours.

When such changes are made in industry in conformity with the demand of the public as expressed through various organizations, it is but fair that the public should express its approval of the changes made. LORD CURZON'S LATEST NOTE

IN the latest joint note to France and Belgium Lord Curzon has come out strongly and the effect of the note is likely to be seen in a break between France and Belgium on the one hand and England and Italy on the other or in an acceptance of the general provisions of the note on the part of the nations who have held the Ruhr valley by force.

In this latest note the British foreign secretary says a number of things that the British government held back under the premiership of Bonar Law because of a desire to avoid unpleasantness in the relations of Britain and France. The note questions the legality of the invasion of the Ruhr; calls attention to the fact that while France suffered the greater destruction of property because of close proximity to the conflict, Britain also lost materially in the war through the destruction of ships and their valuable cargoes; claims that because France has refused to consider the earlier proposals of the British as worthy of consideration it becomes necessary to demand a showdown, whereby the attitude France intends to hold may be made known to the allies; claims that while Britain is willing to suffer the loss of certain advances she made to the allies during the war she must have an amount equal to the British debt to America either from Germany in the form of reparations or from France and Belgium and other nations which were aided by such advances, and affirms that Britain cannot remain indifferent to the threat to her trade and to the world's peace, which the continued occupation of the Ruhr by the armed forces of France and Belgium holds.

It seems inconceivable that this plain speaking will result in any deep feeling between France and England which will result in war between the two nations. It would seem that it is more likely to result in bringing about an understanding between these nations. An effort to speak softly and avoid any cause for hard feeling has not helped the situation in Europe at all, and this plain statement of Britain's position will at least make it plain to France that her occupation of the Ruhr in spite of the disapproval of England and Italy will not be allowed to continue without protest.

The situation in Europe at present seems to support the claim that nations that are strong in a military sense are likely, just because of this strength, to fail to understand the political dangers underlying the use of force. During the World war the mistakes of Germany were largely political mistakes. She did not see that the invasion of Belgium would result in such a world-wide feeling of resentment, nor did she see the consequences of the activities of her submarines which finally led to the entrance of the United States, whose ability to exert a strong military pressure in France she failed to foresee, even after submarine attacks on American ships had made the entrance of America certain.

It is impossible to believe that France can continue to hold the Ruhr indefinitely without inviting resistance from Germany. Sixty million people cannot be permanently repressed. But at this time France sees in the fall of the Cuno ministry the probability of a yielding on the part of Germany, the admission of defeat and the expression of a willingness to bow to French demands, while Britain sees in the threatening conditions in Germany the danger of the breakdown of orderly government with inevitable civil war, a long period of unrest, and a slow and painful recovery with attendant dangers to the peace of Europe and the world.

The onlooker wonders what the war really settled. It is admitted that it destroyed Germany militarism for the present at least, but five years after the signing of the armistice the victorious nations have failed to write a treaty of peace; the conference of Versailles stands condemned as incapable of seeing beyond the circumstances of the days during which it assembled, and the futility of force is revealed.

EXTREME VIEWS OF WOMANHOOD AND ITS MISSION

"THE Soul of Woman: Reflections on Life," a book written by Gina Lombroso, has created a good deal of discussion. It has won attention because the writer, herself a Doctor of Laws and Medicine, daughter of the famous Italian anthropologist Cesare Lombroso, and the wife of Guglielmo Ferrero, the celebrated historian, is entirely out of sympathy with the feminist movement.

The book is dedicated to the writer's daughter and is written that it may save her the suffering that is in store for all women. The sincerity of the writer shines forth in the pages of the book and the reader wonders how it is possible for a woman of the twentieth century to take the position of this educated lady.

It is to be remembered that it is a voice out of the old world and yet the voice comes out of Italy where women are demanding a greater freedom and where the government is ready to extend to women a larger measure of autonomy. The book could not have been written in America by one who had lived in the American atmosphere for a lifetime.

The writer emphasizes the fact that women have again and again struck out into the busy world to return to their purely feminine interests, which they had revalued while engaged in seeking those things that had seemed to be worth while but which did not satisfy the feminine instinct. That there is a conflict between the feminine passions, altruism, maternal instinct and love, and the things emphasized by the woman's rights movement, the writer declares with fervor.

While the book will be dismissed without much consideration by the women of lands where the woman's movement has made considerable gain, it may have a value for these lands. The book is likely to halt the movement in Europe, and this is probably unfortunate, but in countries like this, where some women are asking that women be placed on an equality with men, thereby inviting an age in which many things may be lost though many are gained, the book may call a halt to extremists who have not thoroughly estimated the possible consequences of the changes they propose. There is no sure ground for believing that these extremists are nearer the ideal than this cultured Italian woman whom they consider benighted despite her education and high degree of intelligence.

STEEL MAKERS MERIT COMMENDATION

THERE has never been an issue in America on which the press, religious organizations and social workers, reached the unanimity that marked their disapproval of the 12-hour day. They bombarded the fortifications of the United States Steel corporation and the bombardment was so effective that the arguments used in defending the 12-hour day fell.

Many of the attacks on this long work day led to the pouring out of bitter feelings aroused by the attitude of the United States Steel corporation, whose officials were subjected to an attack whose unification was remarkable. The attack has done its work, the 12-hour day is doomed, and the voice of the public, as expressed through the press and the pulpit, the commission and the forum, has been heard.

There were those who made veiled suggestions that if the steel corporation yielded to the pressure of public opinion and discontinued the 12-hour day, it would take it out of the workers in some other way, probably by allowing the wages to remain at the same level so that the workers would receive wages that would lead them to wish for a return of long hours. This has not been done. The United States Steel corporation has raised the wages of men going on an 8-hour shift by 25 per cent, and in this way has placed the income of the men where they will not feel any heavy financial loss through the reduction of hours.

When such changes are made in industry in conformity with the demand of the public as expressed through various organizations, it is but fair that the public should express its approval of the changes made. The public should be as lavish in its expression of appreciation as it was in its censure of the former policy of the corporation. Criticism without commendation is likely to embitter and is not calculated to win the goodwill of those criticized.

LAWN SPRINKLING DOWN TO SCIENCE

18 Sprinklers So Placed at Water Tower Park as to Keep Lawn Well Sprinkled

LANDSCAPE GARDNER PLANS 23 Varieties of Plants, Shrubs, Vines and Small Flowering Plants to be Added

Much credit is due the Water and Light Board, for the fine appearance of the new park which has just been completed around the water tower at the corner of North Sixth and Main streets.

Work on the improvement of this park was commenced late in June, and the board has succeeded in putting it in shape and has at this time a very good lawn started.

W. D. McKay, secretary of the Water and Light Board, has had much experience in planning parks, and this experience was used to good advantage at the water tower.

Six inches of black dirt was first put on, to make a good seed bed. A neat iron fence around the plot protects the lawn. The name "Brainerd" is worked out in stone on a raised section of the lawn facing Sixth street, and in the southwest corner of the park, Mr. McKay has had rebuilt the rockery and fountain which in former days graced the old depot site.

The work of sprinkling the new lawn has been reduced to a science, eliminating the necessity of keeping a man at work there. Eighteen sprinklers are so placed that every inch of the park is thoroughly watered, it being only necessary to turn the water on and off as desired. Through this system, a very pretty lawn has sprung up from a planting made only three weeks ago.

But Mr. McKay is not satisfied with the improvements he has made. He has had a landscape gardener submit plans for further beautifying the park next season. Flower beds and shrubs will be arranged around the water tower and throughout the park. Twenty-three varieties of plants, shrubs, vines and small flowering trees are included in the plans.

It is hoped to erect an electric sign either on the rockery or the side of the tower, so that the name of Brainerd will greet passersby and those going through the city by train, both day and night.

NOTED PARTY

Of Ramsey County Officials Visit at Silver Beach Summer Resort

On their tour of inspection, members of the Ramsey County Board of Control, and friends visited Silver Beach Summer Resort 13 miles north of Brainerd, as guests of Mrs. W. D. Hurley, one of the members of the Board of Control, who spends her vacation with her family at the above mentioned summer resort.

The party consisted of Miss Val McGuire and the Messrs. Dr. Geor. Dr. Staley, L. C. Hodgson, Geo. Reis, O. J. Tong, John Lind, Mr. Leinen, Frank Diehl, Louis Foley, J. R. McMahon, M. J. Carr. After taking some light refreshments, the party continued their tour to Walker.

In Municipal Court

George Betzold was found not guilty of intoxication in a trial lasting two hours Saturday morning, in municipal court.

The defendant was one of six charged with the same offense, the other five pleading guilty and paying fines.

CIVIL SERVICE

Examinations for Various Posts Recently Held to be Repeated August 22 and 23

The Civil Service Commission invites special attention to the fact that in examinations held recently in Brainerd and other cities throughout the United States for matron, Indian Service, and seamstress, Indian Service, applicants were not secured in the number desired, and that these examinations will be held again on August 22 and 23 respectively.

Persons interested in these or other examinations should apply to the Secretary of the U. S. Civil Service Board at the local post office for detailed information and application blanks.

SUNDAY CONCERT AT LUM PARK

Brainerd Municipal Band to be an Added Attraction at Popular Park

POPULAR AND CLASSIC NUMBERS Lum Park an Objective for Many Who Desire a Sunday Outing

The Brainerd Municipal Band, under the direction of W. R. Hiller, will give a concert on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Lum park.

This popular amusement park is always well patronized on Sundays, and the band concert will be an added attraction and a special treat for those who enjoy their outings there.

It is Mr. Hiller's plan to start the concert promptly at 2:30. The policy of the regular weekly concerts will be followed, as to the class of music furnished and the length of the program. Both popular and classical numbers will be included.

Those who make Lum park the objective of their Sunday outing, will be royally entertained. Ample accommodations have been made for picnic parties, with tables, stoves, and wood. There is plenty of playground apparatus to amuse both the children and grown-ups, in addition to the horseshoe courts and the water sports. Bathing suits can be rented at the pavilion. Refreshments are also on sale there.

LITTLE FALLS PICK UP TEAM LOSES

W. G. Lundquist, secretary of the Little Falls Horseshoe club, was unable to marshal his forces together for the tournament to be played at Brainerd Friday evening. P. O. Berg, of the down river team, was the only one to put in an appearance. He drove from his summer home at Lake Alexander, by way of Pillager, and to sustain the honor of his own club he offered to represent Little Falls single handed.

Three Brainerd men were secured to fill out Mr. Berg's lineup and the game was played regardless of the fact that the Little Falls players stayed away.

Brainerd won the tournament by a score of 9 to 7. Fifty point games were played, each team pitched 972 shoes with the following result:

Brainerd: 972 shoes, making 254 ringers, 33 double ringers, 694 points.
Little Falls: 972 shoes, making 205 ringers, 26 double ringers and 591 points.

The lineup of each four-man team was as follows:

Brainerd: S. E. Engbretson, Ingolf Dillan, Henry Krause, Edward Englund.

Little Falls: P. O. Berg, Oscar Nelson, Walter Engbretson, Severn Tollefson.

The employers made the following percentage of ringers:

S. E. Engbretson	350
Edward Englund	320
Oscar Nelson	293
Walter Engbretson	255
Henry Krause	233
Ingolf Dillan	172
Severn Tollefson	139
P. O. Berg	136

The tournament was played at the new courts which the park board installed at Lum Park. All of the players were very enthusiastic about these courts, and feel that much credit is due the board for installing this much appreciated amusement center in addition to the others which are to be enjoyed at Lum park.

The courts are four in number, built according to professional requirements. They are equipped with electric lights for use in the evening.

It is the plan of local enthusiasts to continue their horseshoe playing during the coming winter, if suitable indoor courts can be secured. Other towns in this territory did this last winter, with very good success.

H. F. MICHAEL URGES FLOWER GROWTH

GREAT OPPORTUNITY FOR CITY

Has a Fine Flower Garden at His Residence on North Fifth Street

Alderman H. F. Michael, at the Rotary club, spoke about beautifying the city. He said in part:

"Many cities seek to be distinctive in some manner. It is a worthy motive for generally such efforts result in the betterment of the city. However too few cities seek such a distinction and as a result most cities 'just grow' and are much like cities of their own size almost anywhere.

One frequently hears of the rose festival in Portland, Oregon. This stands out distinctive and gives it an enviable reputation and a personality that makes it a city where people wish to reside. I have often thought of some distinctive feature which Brainerd might cultivate and which in turn would add to the pleasure of the citizens as well as to their profit. I found that feature in my old home town, Van Wert, Ohio, when I spent a week end here recently.

I reached the city on a Saturday night and found practically every store window a mass or more of gladioli. Some were just "common" kinds, but the majority were named varieties, the names and growers were given and many were prize winners. An old acquaintance told me that the original bulb which had produced a beautiful quality of flowers had cost him $15.00. These flowers were all grown in the city.

I found that this was but a series of events. The tulips bring forth the first event. This is followed by the peony display; after this the Iris has the stage, then the gladioli and then dahlias in turn.

It was not these local displays that seemed so beneficial as was the reaction. I was driven about the city (just a little smaller than Brainerd in size) and marveled at the number of flowers I saw about the residences and in their gardens. There were but few homes that did not have flowers or shrubbery about them. This flower enthusiasm was inspired by several men who first became flower hobbyists and later entered into commercial flower growing.

With the residents of a city beautifying their homes in such a manner it makes far better homes, a content people and for stability generally.

When I expressed myself, as I have here, as to the added beauty to their homes and gardens, I was informed that visitors to their city observed and spoke of the distinctiveness of their beautified homes and surroundings.

Brainerd has a great opportunity here. Every flower I have mentioned thrives here. If our people would enter into the flower feature our homes would be made much more attractive, their values increased other residents would locate here and Brainerd could easily lead and be known as the flower city of Minnesota, a distinction well worth while.

"The king of the sun for pardon, The song of the birds for mirth: One is nearer God's heart in a garden. Than anywhere else on earth."

MARL-ALFALFA DAY AT BACKUS

County Agent E. G. Roth and County Highway Engineer Murphy Attend Same on Thursday

SPEAKERS MAKING ADDRESSES

Included County Agent Roth. Dr. Alway, Dr. Faulk, State Representative Delury

County Agent E. G. Roth and County Highway Engineer Walter M. Murphy attended the marl and alfalfa day program at the experimental field near Backus on Thursday.

They state that the program carried out there was similar to the one staged a week earlier at the Crow Wing experimental farm, with the exception that there were not as many speakers from the University at Backus as were on the local program.

County Agent Roth took a prominent part in the Backus proceedings. He gave an interesting and instructive address on alfalfa seed and seed inoculation, following it with a practical demonstration in the inoculation of Grimm alfalfa seed.

Dr. F. J. Alway, chief of the soils division of the University of Minnesota, who made so many friends among the Crow Wing county farmers at the local soils day program, was in charge at Backus.

Dr. F. E. Faulk, of the Pioneer Marl & Lime Co., a new corporation started at Backus, talked on plans of his company to furnish marl to farmers from nearby beds.

State Representative Dan Delury, of Cass County, spoke on the interest which the state is taking in the newly discovered marl and lime deposits, and plans which are on foot to develop them, thus aiding the farmers on sandy lands in northern Minnesota.

County Highway Engineer Walter M. Murphy, who is responsible for the impetus given to the use of marl locally, and who is a recognized authority on the subject, states that the deposits he examined near Backus, while of very high quality, are not in his estimation to be compared with the marl beds found in Crow Wing county. Mr. Murphy has been asked to co-operate with Cass county officials in the movement to use marl in road building in that county. Experimental roads on which marl was used in Crow Wing county are very successful, and officials of Cass county feel that Mr. Murphy's experience in this respect will be very valuable to them.

Alfalfa on the experimental plots at Backus is about on a par with the plots at Crow Wing, said Mr. Roth. Potash, limestone and marl were used to fertilize this plots, but marl seems to be giving the best results.

The marl excavator, owned by the state, gave demonstrations at Backus. It will be shipped Monday to Crow Wing, and put to work on the Lawrence Koering farm from Wednesday until the end of the week.

LAWN SPRINKLING DOWN TO SCIENCE

18 Sprinklers So Placed at Water Tower Park as to Keep Lawn Well Sprinkled

LANDSCAPE GARDNER PLANS 23 Varieties of Plants, Shrubs, Vines and Small Flowering Plants to be Added

Much credit is due the Water and Light Board, for the fine appearance of the new park which has just been completed around the water tower at the corner of North Sixth and Main streets.

Work on the improvement of this park was commenced late in June, and the board has succeeded in putting it in shape and has at this time a very good lawn started.

W. D. McKay, secretary of the Water and Light Board, has had much experience in planning parks, and this experience was used to good advantage at the water tower.

Six inches of black dirt was first put on, to make a good seed bed. A neat iron fence around the plot protects the lawn. The name "Brainerd" is worked out in stone on a raised section of the lawn facing Sixth street, and in the southwest corner of the park. Mr. McKay has had rebuilt the rockery and fountain which in former days graced the old depot site.

The work of sprinkling the new lawn has been reduced to a science, eliminating the necessity of keeping a man at work there. Eighteen sprinklers are so placed that every inch of the park is thoroughly watered, it being only necessary to turn the water on and off as desired. Through this system, a very pretty lawn has sprung up from a planting made only three weeks ago.

But Mr. McKay is not satisfied with the improvements he has made. He has had a landscape gardener submit plans for further beautifying the park next season. Flower beds and shrubs will be arranged around the water tower and throughout the park. Twenty-three varieties of plants, shrubs, vines and small flowering trees are included in the plans. It is hoped to erect an electric sign either on the rockery or the side of the tower, so that the name of Brainerd will greet passersby and those going through the city by train, both day and night.

SPORTS

SPORT FANS FROM INSIDE THE GATES

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, Aug. 18.—Col. Jake Ruppert's notion of an ideal baseball game, according to the semi-facetious remarks of his friends, is one in which the Yankees would score fifteen runs in the first inning and the other side wouldn't get a hit or a man on base in nine innings.

Col. Ruppert is the owner of the New York Yanks, a terrific baseball fan and a great sportsman, but he has a decided aversion against close games.

When the Yanks were sharing the Polo Grounds with the Giants, the Colonel used to be a daily occupant of the press-box, and the tide of the game could be registered from his seat. When the Yanks would be way out in front, the chair would be occupied with a smiling, chest-puffed colonel, but when a pinch came, with a thrilling rally of the opposition, the chair would be empty. The Colonel would have retired to the darkness under the stands to sweat there until the noise had abated and something had happened one way or the other.

It is not a lack of courage that impels the owner of the American League champions to give way under the pressure of excitement. He hasn't the same temperament in business, or he never would have amassed a fortune that runs into millions. Perhaps it may be that he can't see some enterprise of his losing when he is powerless to have a hand in getting on the line in defense himself.

In marked contrast is the case of Harry Stevens, the caterer who made a couple of millions selling peanuts, "dogs," cones and soda to the crowds at the races and the baseball games in New York.

Stevens has his office and headquarters in the dark caverns under the concrete stands at the Polo Grounds and he emerges, hatless, collarless and perspiring profusely, only when the big excitement is on.

He has too much to do to sit through the monotony of a one-sided game that thrills Col. Ruppert, and he has so thoroughly learned the meaning of various yells and shouts from the crowd that he knows just what is going on and when to come out just in time for the big doings.

Another good type of the fan unusual is Perry Grogan, the genial wire chief in the two New York parks, who has been watching baseball every day for more than twenty years. Millions of words about thousands of games have passed over the wires that Grogan sets up every day for the writers. Perhaps because he has seen so much of it, read so much of it and heard so much, Grogan has long ceased to be a fan.

He can't name the cleanup man in two of the sixteen batting orders, he doesn't keep track of Babe Ruth's home-run record, the noise of the crowd bounces off his ears and the only time he shakes an air of bored lassitude is when some shout comes up the line:

"My wire's open to the Star."

AMUSEMENTS

Every Man, Woman and Child Should See "The Cradle" at Lyceum

In a beautiful story wherein a child's love reconciles her estranged parents, Ethel Clayton, Paramount star, scored an emphatic hit at the Lyceum last night.

Financial worries cause the husband, a young doctor, to yield to the charms of another who becomes enamored of him when he calls to attend her in a slight illness.

A divorce is agreed upon, the husband marries the other woman and the wife a lawyer who had been a former suitor.

The child stays with each parent for periods of six months. But she finds hatred and unhappiness in both households and finally is stricken with an illness that threatens fatal results.

Charles Meredith, who supported Miss Clayton in several pictures, plays the young doctor. The child role is cleverly portrayed by Mary Jane Irving, seven years old, who shows remarkable ability. This picture will be shown for the last time tonight.

Stage-Sweethearts Meet

Nita Naldi's first stage sweetheart was John Daly Murphy, who has a leading part in this noted Paramount player's newest picture, "You Can't Fool Your Wife," which will be seen at the Lyceum Theatre Sunday.

Nita's first appearance on the legitimate stage was in "The Bonehead," wherein John Daly Murphy, the well known comedian, though married in the play, made love to the beautiful siren, much to the distress of his unattractive stage wife.

In "You Can't Fool Your Wife," Miss Naldi and Mr. Murphy resume the love affair of their common stage appearance several years ago, right where they left off.

Mr. Morris Bywater, tenor soloist, will sing at all performances Sunday also.

The Truth About Gasoline Prices

THE Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has announced an immediate reduction in the price of gasoline of 6.6c per gallon applicable throughout the entire territory in which it does business.

It asserts that the retail prices thus made are below the cost of production and distribution.

The Governor of the State of South Dakota, buying distress gasoline below cost of production, and charging against the State no adequate cost of distribution, is selling gasoline to the public in the State of South Dakota at 16c per gallon.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana), operating on its established policy that the customers who purchase its goods should never be compelled to pay a higher price than that fixed and maintained by any competitor, quality and service being duly considered, has met this price.

Other State Executives and Officers of municipalities, with entire propriety, have suggested that any prices made in South Dakota be made applicable in their States. Competitors in other states and communities over the territory, also buying distress gasoline below cost of production, have also cut the prices hitherto established and maintained, in substantial amounts.

In establishing the above price, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is not endeavoring to injure any of its competitors in any way.

It deprecates the stand taken by some of its competitors that the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is endeavoring, by reason of meeting these cuts in price and these demands for lower prices, to put its competitors out of business.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) does not wish to put any competitor out of business because it feels that competitors are necessary to the successful conduct of its business. It will welcome a change of attitude on the part of all parties concerned resulting in a reasonable price for gasoline which will enable not only it but all of its competitors to enjoy a reasonable profit.

It recognizes that the majority of its competitors are fine business men, entitled to the fairest treatment both by the public and by this Company.

The present situation is an exact parallel to one where the butcher, the grocer, the druggist, the dry goods and shoe merchants and every other retailer would be forced to sell at less than the wares cost.

How long would it last? What would a condition like this do to all of us—if it persisted and spread?

We want no monopoly—seek none. We want your trade—but only on the basis of quality and service—not as the result of impossible prices.

We want competition—you want us to have it. It makes the scales of business balance.

These are not idle words. They mean just what they say.

A Big Emotional Scene from "QUINCY ADAMS SAWYER"

Lon Chaney Leads Town Quartette

Lon Chaney appears as the leader of the musical quartette of Mason's Corner in "Quincy Adams Sawyer," the Metro-SL production of Charles Felton Pidgin's famous story of rural life in New England, showing at the New Park Theatre tonight and Sunday. Mr. Chaney gives a good characterization of a man laboring under the delusion that he knows a great deal about music as he waves a baton under the noses of the members of his quartet, Hank Mann, Elmo Lincoln, Billy Fracy and Victor Potel.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Chaney has a perfect right to play any part calling for expert technical knowledge of vocal music.

Harmony Singers and Players at the New Park Tonight and Sunday

The Aalbu Sisters, harmony singers and players of merit, will comprise the vaudeville specialty at the New Park tonight and Sunday. These girls have just closed engagements at the leading Twin City theatres and come highly recommended to Brainard. A treat for lovers of harmony and a big special picture. Regular prices will prevail.

SPORTS

SPORT FANS FROM INSIDE THE GATES

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, Aug. 13.—Col. Jake Ruppert's notion of an ideal baseball game, according to the semi-facetious remarks of his friends, is one in which the Yankees would score fifteen runs in the first inning and the other side wouldn't get a hit or a man on base in nine innings.

Col. Ruppert is the owner of the New York Yankees, a terrific baseball fan and a great sportsman, but he has a decided aversion against close games.

When the Yankees were sharing the Polo Grounds with the Giants, the Colonel used to be a daily occupant of the press-box, and the tide of the game could be registered from his seat. When the Yankees would be way out in front, the chair would be occupied with a smiling, chest-puffed colonel, but when a pinch came, with a thrilling rally of the opposition, the chair would be empty. The Colonel would have retired to the darkness under the stands to sweat there until the noise had abated and something had happened one way or the other.

It is not a lack of courage that impels the owner of the American League champions to give way under the pressure of excitement. He hasn't the same temperament in business, or he never would have amassed a fortune that runs into millions. Perhaps it may be that he can't see some enterprise of his losing when he is powerless to have a hand in getting on the line in defense himself.

In marked contrast is the case of Harry Stevens, the caterer who made a couple of millions selling peanuts, "dogs," cones and soda to the crowds at the races and the baseball games in New York.

Stevens has his office and headquarters in the dark caverns under the concrete stands at the Polo Grounds and he emerges, hatless, collarless and perspiring profusely, only when the big excitement is on.

He has too much to do to sit through the monotony of a one-sided game that thrills Col. Ruppert, and he has so thoroughly learned the meaning of various yells and shouts from the crowd that he knows just what is going on and when to come out just in time for the big doings.

Another good type of the fan unusual is Perry Grogan, the genial wire chief in the two New York parks, who has been watching baseball every day for more than twenty years. Millions of words about thousands of games have passed over the wires that Grogan sets up every day for the writers. Perhaps because he has seen so much of it, read so much of it and heard so much, Grogan has long ceased to be a fan.

He can't name the cleanup man in two of the sixteen batting orders, he doesn't keep track of Babe Ruth's home-run record, the noise of the crowd bounces off his ears and the only time he shakes an air of bored lassitude is when some shout comes up the line:

"My wire's open to the Star."

AMUSEMENTS

Every Man, Woman and Child Should See "The Cradle" at Lyceum

In a beautiful story wherein a child's love reconciles her estranged parents, Ethel Clayton, Paramount star, scored an emphatic hit at the Lyceum last night.

Financial worries cause the husband, a young doctor, to yield to the charms of another who becomes enamored of him when he calls to attend her in a slight illness.

A divorce is agreed upon, the husband marries the other woman and the wife a lawyer who had been a former suitor.

The child stays with each parent for periods of six months. But she finds hatred and unhappiness in both households and finally is stricken with an illness that threatens fatal results.

Charles Meredith, who supported Miss Clayton in several pictures, plays the young doctor. The child role is cleverly portrayed by Mary Jane Irving, seven years old, who shows remarkable ability. This picture will be shown for the last time tonight.
